Have your say on the review of the Disability Standards for Education 2005

The Disability Standards for Education 2005 (the Standards) help make sure students with disability in Australia can access and participate in education on the same basis as students without disability.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The Australian Government Department of Education, Skills and Employment, on behalf of the Minister for Education, is undertaking a review of the Standards through an extensive community consultation process. The Standards are reviewed every five years to test if they are effective in achieving their objectives and whether any improvements could be made.

HOW TO GET INVOLVED

The experiences and views of current, former and prospective students with disability, their families and carers, advocates and educators will be particularly helpful to assist the review ascertain how well the Standards work and if changes are needed to improve them.
